

KAISER MOVES FOR ALLIANCE

Practically Invites The United States To Enter The Political Field Of Europe.

GERMANY NOW STANDS ALL ALONE

Combinations And Agreements Among The Powers Leave The Berlin Government High And Dry Just Now.

Washington, April 6.—For the first time in American history a European power has sought to introduce the United States into politics directly affecting the situation of the old world. Through his ambassador in Washington, Baron Speck von Sternburg, Emperor William has presented to this government an explanation of his position in Morocco in the same terms he described a few days ago personally to the sultan of the Moorish empire. He has stated that Germany's policy in the African empire, bordering on the Mediterranean sea, comprehends these three points:

1. Preserving of the status quo territorially.
2. Equality of treatment for the commerce of all nations.
3. Prohibition of preferential privileges for the citizens of any nation.

"Open Door" for World.

An explanation of the attitude of the German government in Morocco follows assurances which Baron Speck von Sternburg communicated to the president that Germany is in favor of the "open door" all over the world. These assurances were personally given, but in order that there might be no doubt of the attitude of his government in Morocco, Baron von Sternburg left with Secretary Taft a written memorandum, which explained it in a straightforward manner.

Baron von Sternburg has not asked the United States to take any action or make any declaration of policy. The memorandum was simply for the purpose of informing the president of the United States that its interests as well as those of Germany and other trading nations were in danger.

Action Is Important.
Germany's action has its importance in opening the way to the introduction of the United States in European politics. In the past the attitude of the United States has been:

"We will not interfere in European affairs, and you must not interfere in American affairs." Germany recognizes this indisposition on the part of the American people to meddle in the old world. But it finds that a solution has arisen which necessitates the attention of the United States.

A year ago Great Britain and BIG STRIKE EXPECTED BY THE MONTGOMERY WARD COMPANY IN CHICAGO (SHORTLY)

A Hundred Teamsters Stopped Work This Afternoon Under Orders.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)
Chicago, April 6.—A hundred teamsters of the mail order house of Montgomery Ward & Co. were ordered to strike this afternoon in the interest of the striking garment workers. The company has refused to arbitrate. It is expected a walk-out to the extent of seven hundred express drivers, coal teamsters and others hauling for the big firm will come.

The man found dead on the Lake Shore tracks near Indiana Harbor is believed to be Fred Behler.

EXPLOSION WAS DUE TO GRUDGE AGAINST LETTERS

Disaster To The Illinois Mine Is Now Laid At The Door Of Unknown Parties.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Zeigler, Ill., April 6.—Unknown parties are declared to have caused the explosion in the Zeigler mine last Monday by which forty-three miners lost their lives. This is the verdict of the jury impaneled by Coroner J. M. Adams of Franklin county, after an investigation covering two days. The bulk of the testimony tended to show that the deaths were due to an explosion following an explosion of blasting powder, which was set off by some miscreant whose identity it has not yet been possible to trace, though it is probable that he perished with the victims of his crime.

Explosive In Mine.

There were forty-three kegs of powder and two boxes of miserie, a low grade of dynamite, in the mine. The mine is believed by the jury to have been practically free from gas and perfectly safe for working purposes at the time the double explosion sent the more than two-score miners to their end.

Blame Unknown Parties.

The text of the verdict is as follows: "We, the undersigned jurors, impaneled to inquire into the cause of death of William Atkinson, John Graham, John Lindsay and others, hereby find that the said William Atkinson, John Graham and John Lindsay

France was an arrondissement where by in the German view the British government surrendered all its political and commercial rights in Morocco. Though German trade interests are large and Germany has a certain political interest in the disposition of Moorish territory, neither the London nor Paris government consulted Emperor William about their negotiations, and even failed to communicate officially the text of the convention to the Berlin foreign office. Germany then concluded that it must act to protect its own interests. When Emperor William went to Tangier it was believed convenient to make a declaration of the German policy, and this he did when he talked with the sultan.

Protects German Interests.

The moving cause of Emperor William's action is information which reached Berlin that France was on the point of deposing the sultan and placing another Moor on the throne who would be more pliant and disposed to carry out French hints. It also was learned that the purpose of France was to shut the trading door as it did in Madagascar. German commercial interests are large. The effect of such procedure would be to ruin them, for with the preferential treatment French trade would soon control the market. The effect on American trade, which has been slowly developing, also would be ruinous.

Relations of The Powers.

In turning to the United States Germany was actuated by the fact that it has not a single powerful friend in Europe at the present time save Russia, and Russia is too preoccupied in the war with Japan to give assistance to any other nation. The relations of Great Britain and Germany are bad. France is only waiting a good opportunity to attack the latter. Great Britain and France are believed to be prepared to act together against Germany. Italy is more friendly to Great Britain than it is to Germany, and besides, Italy has recognized the predominance of French interests in Morocco.

In the absence of any word from the president it is impossible to say what the attitude of the United States will be.

Montgomery Ward & Co. were ordered to strike this afternoon in the interest of the striking garment workers. The company has refused to arbitrate. It is expected a walk-out to the extent of seven hundred express drivers, coal teamsters and others hauling for the big firm will come.

The man found dead on the Lake Shore tracks near Indiana Harbor is believed to be Fred Behler.

EXPLOSION WAS DUE TO GRUDGE AGAINST LETTERS

Disaster To The Illinois Mine Is Now Laid At The Door Of Unknown Parties.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Zeigler, Ill., April 6.—Unknown parties are declared to have caused the explosion in the Zeigler mine last Monday by which forty-three miners lost their lives. This is the verdict of the jury impaneled by Coroner J. M. Adams of Franklin county, after an investigation covering two days. The bulk of the testimony tended to show that the deaths were due to an explosion following an explosion of blasting powder, which was set off by some miscreant whose identity it has not yet been possible to trace, though it is probable that he perished with the victims of his crime.

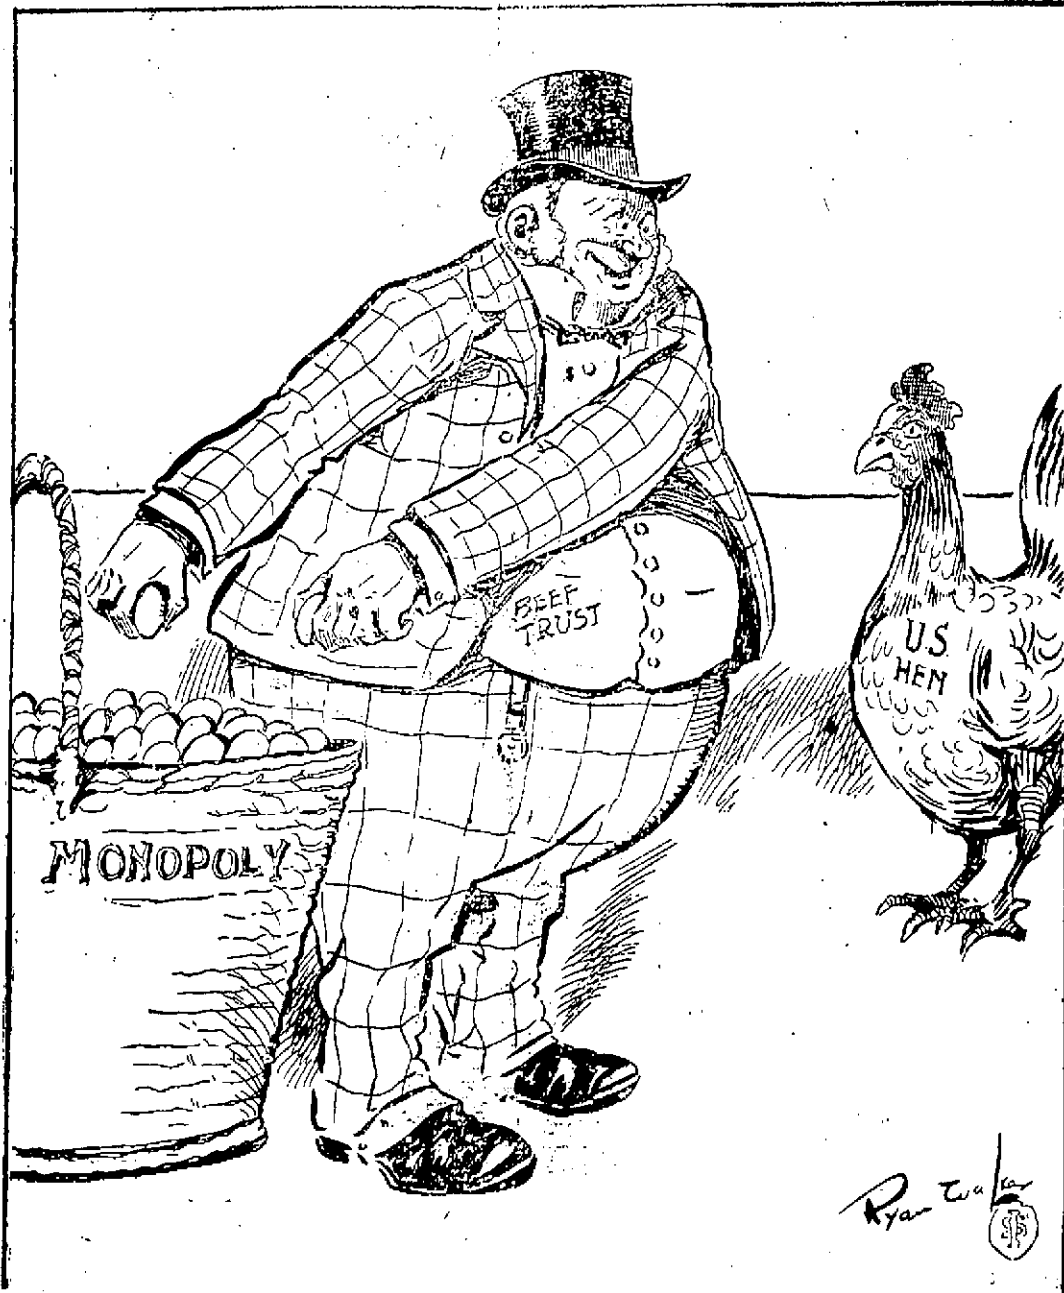

Say Mine Was Safe.

"And we further find that Joseph Geisler, William Baxter, Everett Jones, Rola Campbell, Robert Davis, Jerry O. Woods, Gustave Brumlik, Charles Robinson, Robert Hare, Harry Withrow and thirty others, whose names are to us unknown, came to their deaths in said mine on the 3d day of April, 1905, as a result of the aforesaid explosion.

"And we further believe that said mine was in good and safe condition for working purposes, as far as gas was concerned, on April 3, 1905."

Theories Are Plentiful.

The motive for this awful crime, which made scores of women widows and children fatherless, is, of course, unknown, but naturally there are plenty of theories to fit the case. The probabilities, however, are that the identity of the criminal who fired the charge and the reasons which inspired him to commit the outrage will be buried in the grave with his remains.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

New York, April 6.—Four members of the family of Samuel Clark, residing in a tenement on the east side, were found dead in bed this morning as the result of inhaling illuminating gas. The dead are Mary Rogers, aged 75; Helen Clark, aged 13; Kate Clark, aged 10; and Elizabeth Clark, 7.

INGA HANSON PERJURY CASE IS BROUGHT BEFORE THE ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE

Resolutions Offered That Governor Investigate the Traction Companies.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

Springfield, Ill., April 6.—The sensational perjury case of Inga Hanson of Chicago was carried before the legislature today when Mr. Juul of Chicago offered in the senate a resolution calling upon the legislature and governor to investigate the case on the ground the traction companies are to use fifty thousand dollars in obtaining a conviction. The resolution was made a special order of business for next Tuesday.

STATE NOTES

Orson Rowlands, aged 20 years, is dead at Waukesha as a result of injuries received while riding horseback, his horse running under a low tree, striking Rowlands on the head and fracturing his skull.

The stockholders of the Reathaven Sanitarium company, Waukesha, have decided to increase the capital from $150,000 to $250,000. The work of completing the building will be completed by Dr. R. G. Thwaites of the State Historical society, will do work in the summer session of the University of California this year. He will lecture on continental exploration and especially on the history of Rocky mountain exploration, emphasizing the Lewis and Clark expedition. He will also discuss the history of new France.

On Nov. 26 last Mrs. August Naurer, Miss Ada Stoll, and Carl Yoo started across Two Mile bay, north of Oshkosh, in a hunting skiff, the women having followed Yoo to carry him a lunch he had forgotten. Not a trace of the trio or the boat had been discovered until Wednesday, when the corpse of Mrs. Naurer was found. This proves the drowning of the whole party.

Two Exceptions.

"They say that all the world loves a lover," said the rejected suitor as he ate his dinner from the mantelpiece. "But there are generally two exceptions to the rule—the girl you want to be your wife and the man you want to be your father-in-law."

MIX POLITICS WITH HEALTH

Russian Physicians Meet To Devise Means To Ward off Cholera Epidemic.

TO BETTER ECONOMIC CONDITIONS

This Is The First Thing Necessary To Insure The Health Of The Common People Of The White Czar.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

Moscow, April 6.—The congress of doctors from all parts of Russia, summoned to meet here to devise means for combating the expected visitation of cholera, as its first step in the anti-cholera crusade adopted a set of resolutions calling for the execution of the whole radical political program. It was through fear of just such action that the authorities at first prohibited the congress, but afterward permission was granted to meet on the condition that only scientific questions be discussed.

Peculiar Combination.

This grafting of political considerations upon the ostensible medical aims of the gathering is justified, the speakers argue, because of the incapacity of the present administration to cope adequately with cholera. The resolutions declare that an improvement in economic conditions of the people is necessary as a basis for the preservation of health, and that for future prevention of epidemics it is imperative to have radical changes in the tax laws, an increase in the quantity of land allotted to peasants and to satisfy the demands of the industrial classes and grant all concessions necessary to completely tranquilize the ignorant population, among whom otherwise it will be impossible to execute sanitary measures. Even the lives of doctors, the resolutions aver, would be in danger.

Declare War Must End.

The proposals culminated in a demand for the immediate convocation of a constituent assembly on the basis of a universal secret ballot without distinction as to sex, nationality or religion.

POOR GIRL IS TO MARRY A GOTHAM MILLIONAIRE

University Settlement Worker Will Marry His Stenographer Very Shortly.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

New York, April 6.—J. G. Phelps Stokes, millionaire and son of Anson Phelps Stokes, a millionaire, will marry Miss Rose Harriet Pastor, formerly a staff correspondent of the Jewish Daily News. A date for the bans has not been set. Miss Pastor is well known as a writer and Mr. Stokes is prominent in the social and business world. Miss Pastor a few weeks ago resigned her position on the Jewish Daily News to accept a clerkship in the office of her fiancé, who is a University Settlement worker.

Family Romance.

One of Mr. Stokes' sisters, Caroline, met her husband in circumstances somewhat similar to those in which he met the woman whom he intends to marry. Miss Stokes was much interested in the movement to improve the condition of the poor of the east side and was a frequent visitor to the University Settlement headquarters.

It was there she met Robert Hunter, then head worker of the settlement. He came here from Chicago. A warm friendship sprang up between the two.

Works in Cigar Factory.

Miss Pastor was born July 15, 1879, in Augustovo, Suwalk, Russia. She left the country for London in 1892 and there attended the Jewish free school from the age of 7 until she was 9. The family emigrated to Cleveland in 1897, and the girl, then 12 years old, went to work in a cigar factory rolling cigars. She remained there until 1902, when she came to New York to accept a position on the Jewish Daily News.

The congress, in which there are more than 1,300 delegates, representing nearly every district of European Russia, also demanded the immediate stoppage of the war, declaring that a policy of conquest and adventure had thrown the country into terrible and extensive poverty, in which cholera would flourish.

This action of the congress was not unexpected, as the medical profession of Russia is largely composed of Jews and Poles and has been subjected to the radical influence of the universities.

Delegates Are Alarmed.

The delegates professed extreme alarm at alleged attempts to incite the ignorant classes against the educated liberals, and the whole spirit of the resolutions breathes overtures to the working classes for united action.

Among the demands set forth in the resolutions is the transfer of the police to the executives of the local governments; guarantees of freedom of speech, the press and assembly; union for strikes; amnesty for all political and religious prisoners and exiles; equality of all nationalities, languages and religions before the law; general compulsory education; separation of church and state; introduction of an income tax; abolition of indirect taxes and the main points of the Gopon petition of the St. Petersburg workmen of Jan. 22. One resolution favored responsibility of the ministry to a representative assembly.

After the adoption of the resolutions a number of radical speeches were made.

SUMMERSCHOOLS AT UNIVERSITY

WORK FOR THE LABORING MAN IN SPECIAL COURSES.

SPECIAL MACHINERY COURSE

This Special Department Seeks to Reach the Laboring Man and Artisan

Madison, Wis.—The announcement bulletin for the fifth annual session of the summer school for artisans under the auspices of the college of engineering calls attention to an important line of work which the University of Wisconsin is doing in providing instruction for a large number of men employed in mechanical and electrical plants, who are unable to avail themselves of the regular four year courses in engineering. When the course was established five years ago as a result of the determination on the part of the University authorities to extend the advantages of the engineering courses as widely as possible, the result of this new departure in technical education was regarded with considerable interest. The success of the undertaking during the past four years has demonstrated beyond question the practicability of the artisans' course. Since the organization of the course, the attendance has more than doubled, and nearly 100 men who are actively engaged in mechanical and electrical work took advantage of the course last summer. The variety of occupations of the workers to whom this training appeals is well indicated by the occupations of those who attended last year, for among them were steam engineer, pattern maker, armature vinder, erecting machinist, refrigeration engineer, superintendent of power plant, manager of electric plant, chemist, blacksmith, draftsman, carpenter, farmer, instructor in engineering, and normal training teacher.

Supplements Individual Study.

A larger proportion of those who attend this school for artisans are men who have entered upon technical work directly after leaving the common schools or high schools without pursuing courses in technical schools. Many of these find that the opportunity for advancement is limited to some extent by the lack of a more advanced technical training, a deficiency which, in many cases, they seek to remedy by carrying on their studies during their leisure time, with the assistance of correspondence school instruction. Valuable as this individual study generally proves, it is not always entirely satisfactory because of the lack of opportunity for that practice in the laboratory and in the use of instruments and machines, which form such an essential part of regular courses in engineering. It is this work in the laboratory that the summer school undertakes to give by throwing open laboratories and their extensive equipment in the college of engineering to those attending the summer school. With the combined training afforded by their practical experience, individual study, and summer school practice, many of these workers are able to prepare themselves to occupy positions of greater responsibility. The reports made last year by those in attendance at the school in regard to the occupation for which they were preparing themselves, indicate the practical possibility of this training. There were 8 fitting themselves for positions as stationary engineers, 8 as draftsmen, 7 for central station work, 4 for electrical engineers, 3 for mechanical engineers, 3 for machinists, 2 for superintendents of electric power plants, 2 as manual training teachers, 1 as manager of ice plant, and 1 as engine salesman.

Preparation Required.

In order to make the benefit of this school as far reaching as possible, the entrance requirements have been limited to a knowledge of English and arithmetic. Thus while most of those attending the school have a preparation much in advance of these elementary requirements, practically no one is "debarred" from its privileges. As might naturally be expected, the preparation of the students varies considerably, but as far as possible the instruction is adapted to the preparation of the individual. Wherever it is necessary, and whenever it is possible to do so, the classes are divided into elementary and advanced sections in order to meet the requirements of all students. The laboratory work, however, is largely individual, and thus a student may take advantage of all the preparation that he has received, either by practical work or by technical school training. The instruction given in the artisans course is often of the most difficult technical nature with the exact requirement of engineering practice, such, for example, as that in steam boiler engineering tests, tests of fuels, electric meter, lamps, etc. Work of this kind is ordinarily given only in the regular engineering courses, and yet the more practical portions of it, such as are taught in the summer school for artisans is of daily use in many establishments, and as past experience has shown, can be given successfully during the summer course.

USEFUL DISCOVERIES.

Are Not Always Startling. Neither Do They Create the Most Talk. It is not always the greatest, most startling discoveries of science that are most useful to the human race. Comparatively few people were directly interested in Herschel's finding of the new planet Uranus, but many thousands have been benefited by Prof. Hana's experiments, which proved beyond a question that Dandruff and Baldness are the results of the invasions of a parasitic germ which invades the roots of the hair. The discovery of the true cause of baldness made Newbro's Herpicide possible. Herpicide effectually kills this germ. Destroy the cause you remove the effect. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

As it is impossible for a student to take all the studies offered in a single line of work in one summer session, many return for a second summer. The usual practice is to take work principally in either steam or electricity the first session, and to take the other subject not studied the first year, during the second summer. In this way the students obtain a comparatively thorough course in these two important, and closely related fields. While in many mechanical and electrical employments the subject matter of a four year professional course is not required, nevertheless some portions of it are absolutely essential. To the central electric station superintendent or manager, for example, or to an employee who desires advancement, a knowledge of the methods of testing the machinery in its operation is necessary in order to obtain the highest efficiency in its operation. This requires a knowledge of the theory of the machinery and of the use of the instruments necessary for testing. The same kind of knowledge is necessary to the engineer in charge of a steam plant.

Courses Offered.

The main divisions of the work include subjects of engines and boilers, applied electricity, machine design, materials of construction, fuels and shop work, and manual training. In connection with the work in engines and boilers, are lecture courses in the theory of heat, steam engines, and boilers, gas engines, refrigerating machines, compressed air, and boiler and engine testing, with laboratory work in testing gas, gasoline, hot air engines, refrigerating machinery, and boilers. The work in applied electricity consists of lectures and laboratory work on dynamos, motors, electric meters, telephones, electroplating, and electro-typing, electric station work, electric lighting, and similar subjects. Fuels and lubricants with tests of each with view to determining their value, form another important part of the work. Materials of construction and machine design including mechanical drawing, are the subject of lectures and practical work. The shop work consists of all branches of iron and wood working, including pattern and tool making. All the laboratories of the college of engineering, such as the steam testing laboratory, dynamo and electrochemical and electromechanical laboratories, the testing laboratory for the strength of materials, and the machine shop, forging shop, foundry, and wood working shop, are open for the use of the students in the summer session, who thus have practically all the opportunities which this practical work which the students in the regular engineering courses enjoy.

Indications of Large Attendance.

Inquiries from prospective students and applications from former students which have already been received indicate that there will be a large attendance this year. In order that adequate provision may be made for the needs of all who desire to attend, those in charge of the course are undertaking to secure applications before June first, from all who intend to attend the course. The fact that for the first time this year special excursion rates have been secured from all points in the Western Passenger Association territory, with special tourist rates from all parts of the country, will also doubtless result in a large increase in attendance this year.

A Part of University's Mission.

The state university is under peculiar obligations to the commonwealth which are not felt by the institutions of private endowment, for as the former is supported by the state, its benefits should be as far reaching as possible. It should aim to reach, indirectly or directly, all the citizens of the whole state. The question that is constantly arising, however, is how in the matter of instruction this can be most successfully accomplished. There are and always will be a large number who cannot avail themselves of the advantages of a full college or technical course or even of a whole year or two of such training. There are others who have not adequate preparation for taking up regular college work and who have reached an age when it is practically impossible for them to obtain it. It is to both these classes that the university is constantly striving to extend its advantages. It is by this special course in the school for artisans, in the college of engineering, as well as by the short course in agriculture, dairy course, and the ten days' farmers conference in the college of agriculture, that the university is able to give practical instruction to hundreds of men in active life who cannot take advantage of the regular courses. As these agricultural courses have grown rapidly until they have come to be recognized as an important feature in the development of the state, so it is expected that the summer school for artisans, as it develops and as its attendance increases, will prove an important factor in the mechanical and electrical interests of Wisconsin.

THE CIRCULATION REPORT OF MARCH

There Were 5829 Books Drawn from Library—Month's Total Increases—Daily Average Decreases.

Though during the month of March the total circulation of books from the Janesville public library shows an increase over the total for February, the daily average circulation is lowered. This may be accounted for by the difference in the length of the two months. In March there were drawn 5,829 books, more than in February by 882, and the daily average was 215, while the corresponding figure for February was 210. In the main library there were 3,384 books obtained, an increase of 316 over the former month's figure and the children room there were 2,445 books taken during March, showing an increase of 566. Though the amount of fiction read decreased in February from the amount read in January, this class has risen to greater favor during March than it enjoyed during either of the former months, the numbers being 2,678 in January, 2,605 for February and 2,949 for March. The circulation for the German shelf shows little difference, 47 books being obtained in February and 46 in March. Following is the report for March:

WILL NOT LIKELY GO THROUGH HERE

Ringling Brothers' Circus Most Probably Routed to Chicago via Belvidere.

It is not at all probable that the route of Ringling Brothers' circus from Baraboo to Chicago will be via Janesville. Though some here were of the opinion that the trains carrying the great show would pass through this city during some night this week, railroad men, in a position to know, state that the circus went from Baraboo to Chicago last year by way of Belvidere instead of Janesville and this is the route likely to be taken this year. The reason for this is that the Madison division officials, as are officials of all divisions, are desirous of carrying the show over their division as far as possible in order that their pay-roll and the earnings will be larger. The Madison division ends at Janesville on the line between here and the Capital city, while the other extends the entire distance to Harvard by way of Belvidere. If the show was routed through Janesville it would be transferred to the Wisconsin division here and the work of transporting it the distance between Janesville and Harvard would be credited to that division.

HAYES BROS' WILL IMPROVE CHICAGO

Local Contracting Firm Awarded $150,000 River Deepening Contract by Drainage-Canal Board.

Hayes Brothers of this city have been awarded a $150,000 contract for widening and deepening the west branch of the Chicago river from the McCormick Harvesting Co.'s plant to the Bridgeway. The area of projected improvement includes the river's course for about a mile in the manufacturing district. Michael and Dennis Hayes attended the meeting of the drainage canal board and accepted the contract yesterday. The undertaking will necessitate the construction of two coffer dams before the excavating is commenced with the big steel shovels. A large force of men will be employed.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar bottles. You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. SALOONS MAY HAVE TO MOVE

THREE HUNDRED FEET FROM SCHOOLS, THE DEAD LINE.

BILL REPORTED IN SENATE

Recommended for Passage by Educational Committee—Would Have Effect Here.

Should the 300-foot limit bill, regulating the distance of saloons from public or parochial schools, reported to the senate yesterday by Legislator Stout as the chairman of the committee on education, become a law, three saloons and probably a fourth would be compelled to move within the next two years and no licenses to conduct any liquor traffic within the prescribed radius could be granted by the common council in the future.

Near Lincoln School
These bars are all located in the block in the fifth ward in which stands the Lincoln schoolhouse, commonly known as the Old Central building. The hotel bar nearby, which is inside the "dead-line," would be an exception, one clause in the bill stating that the regulation shall not apply to hotels established prior to February 1, 1905.

Committee Recommends
The bill is recommended by the committee for passage and the report came somewhat as a surprise, as it is understood both Senators Rogers and Kreutzler stood for a delay so that additional hearings could be had. The measure as reported is a compromise, it is claimed, and met with the approval of the committee with two exceptions. In order to overcome these objections Senator Rogers asked for a delay in the report until he and Senator Kreutzler could confer.

Objections Are Expected
The amended bill is the product of Harrison Green of Milwaukee and has the approval of Bishop Messmer and other church and educational men. The bill in its present form, however, does not meet with the approval of the saloon and brewery men and the prospects are that one of the interesting contests of the session will result before the measure is adopted. Senator Rogers announced that it was his purpose to offer amendments upon the floor, and hoped that the committee would adopt them so that the differences could be adjusted.

What Bill Prohibits
The section of the bill relating to the establishment of distance limits is as follows:

"From and after June 30, 1901, anything contained in any city charter to the contrary notwithstanding, no such license shall be granted to any person or persons for the sale of any such liquors, in any building, booth, or other place within a distance of 300 feet of any public school ground or any permanently established parochial school grounds which shall have been owned and run as such for three years, provided this shall not apply to the sale of liquors in any building which fronts solely upon a street upon which the school in question faces, and provided also that this shall not apply to drugstores, clubs, theatres, or hotels actually established prior to the first day of February, 1905, nor to license for the sale of liquors in breweries. From and after the passage of this act no new saloons shall be licensed to do business within the aforesaid 300 feet limit from any of said schools. Where new public or parochial schools are hereafter established and shall be any established saloons within the aforesaid 300-foot limit of such school grounds, such established saloons shall be given two years from the establishment of such school or schools to move."

MAKES AN APPEAL FOR ACTIVE HELP

Intense Suffering Among the Japanese Families of the Dead Nippon Soldiers.

Touching appeals from Christian workers in the far east have come to prominent citizens of the United States, imploring aid for the sick and wounded soldiers of both armies and the multitude of destitute widows and orphans of soldiers killed in the war. Rev. Y. Honda, principal of the Aoyama Theological school at Tokyo, Japan, in a recent letter says: "How long this distressing condition of things will last we cannot say. The people are doing their best and every charitable agency is taxed to the utmost, but so numerous have the impoverished families become that our means of immediate relief are utterly inadequate. Could some general fund be raised for this noble purpose and missionaries on the ground be furnished with the means of distributing and alleviating the distress of these families, it would indeed be a precious gift, and I assure you never be forgotten." We may not help the sufferers, but we may help the suffering, and distressed. The Red Cross of Italy is neutral in every clime, and the claims of helpless children are a challenge to Christian love and beneficence the world over.

In response to the moving appeals thus coming from Christian workers in Japan, the Japanese relief fund has been organized to obtain the help needed, and all funds contributed will be distributed through the Evangelical Alliance of Japan, under the oversight of Bishop Harris, who is now in that country. The executive committee composed of Hon. Seth Low, Bishop Greer, Bishop Harris, Chas. Cuthbert Hall, D. D.; W. R. Huntington, D. D.; Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, Geo. H. Southard, Dr. Wm. Elliott Griffiths, and B. F. Buck, secretary, request contributions, large or small, be sent to the Franklin Trust Company, Treasurer, No. 140 Broadway, New York City. About $18,000 has already been contributed for this purpose, $10,000 of which has been forwarded to Japan for distribution.

STOUGHTON WILL LICENSE SALOONS

Temperance Element Lost Contest by Narrow Margin of Children Votes—Parade of Eighteen.

License won at Stoughton by the narrow margin of eighteen votes. It was erroneously reported in yesterday's Milwaukee papers that the saloon interests had lost. Last year's majority for license was 130, so the anti-saloon partisans believe they have cause for rejoicing in the progress they have made. A feature of the Stoughton election was the parade of some fifty or more children, thinly garbed, carrying banners, and wearing badges with this inscription: "Vote No, for My Sake." The city decided for municipal ownership of the water-works plant by a majority of 338, the vote being 522 to 134.

Met Horrible Death
Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Wilson of Chicago met a horrible death in that city two weeks ago. While attempting to cross a railroad track in an auto-car they were struck by an incoming passenger train, and almost instantly killed. Among other relatives they leave a daughter, Miss Olive Fawcett of this city, who resides at the home of her step-father on Milton avenue.

STATE MEETING HERE TUESDAY

ROYAL NEIGHBORS WILL HOLD BIENNIAL CAMP.

200 WILL PROBABLY COME

Mrs. Eva Childs, Supreme Receiver of Organization, Will Give Reception Monday Evening.

Next Tuesday in the East Side Odd Fellows' hall in this city will be held the biennial state camp of the Royal Neighbors of Wisconsin. About two hundred delegates, one from nearly every camp, are expected to be in attendance. The meeting will be called together at ten o'clock.

Convention's Work
The work of the convention will be to elect delegates to the annual encampment, to choose three state officers, pass resolutions and probably endorse members for election to offices in the national organization. The national meeting will be held June 6 in Topeka, Kansas.

Janesville Delegates
Mrs. Alice Mason will represent the Crystal Camp No. 132 and Mrs. Rita Gibson the Triumph Camp No. 4048 of this city. Three state officers will be elected—oracle, vice-oracle, and recorder-receiver.

Reception Monday
Mrs. Eva Childs of the Hanover camp, who is supreme receiver of the Royal Neighbors of America and makes her headquarters in the Jackson block in this city, will give a reception to the delegates in the Myers house parlors Monday evening.

Commenced As Deputy
Mrs. Childs was elected to her present office in June, 1903, and will complete her term this June, it being contrary to the regulations of the constitution to reelect a person to any one office. Mrs. Childs commenced work in the order as a state deputy ten years ago, which work she followed for eight years. For two years she was supreme marshal and in June, 1903, was chosen supreme receiver, the office she now holds.

Ten Years' Service
In the state organization Mrs. Childs was oracle for two years and marshal for the term of the same length. Having served in these various capacities as an officer of the national society she thoroughly understands the work of the order and has spent ten years of her life in its service. Mrs. Childs is a charter member of the Marie Camp No. 319 of Hanover.

SHERIFFS GRIEVED AT STATE SENATE

Wallace Cochrane Shares in General Disapproval Manifested Over Passage of Certain Bill.

Along with other officials in the state, Sheriff Wallace Cochrane is more or less disgusted over the passage by the senate of a bill that provides for the taking of insane patients to the various asylums by attendants of these institutions instead of by the sheriffs of the county where the defective resides. The bill provides that where a person is adjudged insane the court shall at once notify the superintendent of the hospital where the insane employ or employees requesting an employee or employees of the institution to transfer such patient. The expenses of such transfer shall be paid out of the current expense fund and then charged to the county. The bill attracted no attention in the senate, it being introduced by the committee on charitable and penal institutions, and was sent over to the assembly some two weeks ago. It is understood that it was to be on the assembly calendar today recommended for passage. A number of sheriffs have gone to Madison to protest against the passage of the bill, and express the hope that the measure can be killed.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

The First Flowers: Comforting assurance that spring is really here, despite the snow flurry this afternoon, is found in the unfolding of the petals of the little wind-tower, the first of the wild blossoms that may be picked in this locality. A dozen of them, discovered by Miss Belle Stoddard, were shown at the courthouse yesterday.

Levee for Goller: Herbert J. Tweedle of Chicago, who holds the distinction of having been the first "real golfer" to play over the Mississippi links, arrived in Janesville this morning and a levee was in progress at Baker's drugstore throughout the forenoon. Devotees of the sport exchanged ideas with the "professional" to their mutual advantage.

Examination Saturday: The examination in municipal court of the young man charged with breaking into Lowell's store some time ago is set for Saturday morning.

Trial Tomorrow: Clarence McDonald and John Dulin, the two boys alleged to be implicated in the theft of a gold watch valued at $37.75 from Thomas Kennarth at the Madison house on March 26, will have their trial in municipal court tomorrow morning, both having waived examination and being held in the county jail pending trial. The $500 bail has not been furnished. Sheriff Cochrane recovered the watch from the Great Northern Loan bank in Chicago, where it was pawned.

OPENING DANCE OF SERIES GIVEN BY MOONLIGHT CLUB

Kneff & Hatch's Orchestra Played for Pleasant Gathering at Central Hall.

At Central hall last evening the Moonlight club, a newly formed organization of young men, enjoyed the first of a series of dancing parties to be given during the present spring. Kneff & Hatch's orchestra furnished the music and a delightful time was enjoyed by all the participants. The officers of the club are: Verne Muddock, president; Fred Eaden, secretary; and Leo Brown, treasurer. The second party will probably be given shortly after Easter.

ASK HER TO CEASE PERSECUTING IRA

Parents of Alleged Bigamist Write to Atty. Angle King—Trial Begins April 14.

Along with the $500 worth of household goods and personal effects which Mrs. Cecelia Goodman Moyer charges Ira S. Moyer with taking away with him, and which will be returned to the Janesville woman as soon as the legal formalities are concluded, it is alleged that he also purloined the marriage certificate shortly after their wedding in Union Center on August 2, 1894. Moyer secured possession of the goods and got them out of town while his wife was away from Janesville on a visit with her parents. The young man was an individual of the most exemplary habits, while here, never indulging in cuss-words, or tobacco, and praying four times a day. He was also a strong believer in life insurance and the refusal of his Janesville wife to take out a policy vexed him sorely. A letter has been found among his effects, written by a young woman in Alhambra, Illinois, who had married his Janesville wife, in which the writer says that she will never consent to live on her father's even though he has a 450-acre farm. Moyer's parents in Indiana have written to Atty. Angle King of this city begging her to cease her persecution of their son. The trial to convict the man of bigamy begins at Keokuk on April 14. The heaviest sentence he can receive if found guilty, according to Prosecuting Attorney Blood, is ten years in prison.

JOHNNIE CONDON SENTENCED TODAY

Judge Dunwiddie Committed Him to Waukesha Industrial School for Six Years

Johnnie Condon, charged with the killing of little George Griffin in the month of March, a year ago, and found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in circuit court, was this afternoon sentenced by Judge Dunwiddie to the Industrial School for Boys at Waukesha until he shall be twenty-one years of age. "I don't know anything to say," was the boy's tearful reply when he was asked by the court whether or not he wished to make any statement. Judge Dunwiddie told the youthful prisoner that to his mind the fact that he did not quite tell the truth at various times was one of the worst features of the case. At the school to which he was going he would have an opportunity to secure an education and learn a trade and it was within his power to make a man of himself. James Condon, the father, was advised to throw away all revolvers or at least keep them safely secured from his children in the future and so forth. He will be fifteen years old on June 19 next, so he will have six years at the Waukesha institution unless his record is deemed sufficiently good to warrant his parole during the last few years.

SIX THOUSAND IS FIXED AS LIMIT

All Those Who Wish to Grow Beets for Rock County Co. May Not Be Accommodated.

There is some possibility that all those who wish to grow sugar beets for the Rock County factory may not be accommodated with contracts. The 5,000-acre mark was passed several days ago and 6,000 is the limit. During the coming season beets will be shipped—covered with earth—at the shipping stations enabling them to remain there until February, if necessary, and permitting early delivery on the part of the growers. The season of work at the factory will probably extend from October 1 to the first of March, and during that time 34,000 tons of beets involving an outlay of nearly $400,000 will be consumed.

A ROSE OF NORMANDY

By WILLIAM R. A. WILSON

CHAPTER XXIII.

CONTAINS SOME HAPPINESS, A COMPACT, A VISION, AND A CALAMITY.

Arriving at Fort Niagara, Renee was turned over to the three nuns stationed there. They sympathized with her in her hardships and gave devoted thanks for her escape. One of them was filled with zeal to take the place of her who was drowned on the trip, and, much to Renee's delight, obtained permission to leave for Michilimackinac when the vessel started. A week was lost perfecting all arrangements. At the end of this time both Toni and Renee were ready to proceed, although the latter was still unable to walk without support. The men with the stores had transported them from their boat, at the mouth of the river, to the fort. Toni chose two vessels, the larger one for the supplies and the men conveying them, the other, smaller, for the use of his party, which was now increased by the addition of one of the priests from Fort Frontenac who decided to take advantage of this opportunity to push on his way westward. The tiny cabin was fitted up for the two women so as to be as comfortable as possible. A plentiful supply of provisions was taken, although for fresh meat they depended on the success of their hunts on shore. The larger boat started first, with orders to stop at Michilimackinac only long enough to apprise them of the coming of the nuns and then proceed to the fort on the Miami, there to build a sufficient number of canoes while awaiting Toni's arrival.

The day of their departure was auspicious. A fair wind ruffled the deep blue surface of the lake; the sky was clear and the summer sun warmed without smiting them. Renee's heart danced in unison with the boat for sheer happiness. Her presence was a delight to all on board. The priest, when not engaged with his breviary, listened with pleasure to her chatter, while the nun soon loved her as her own sister. Even Pompon so far forgot his hostility to the sex as to condescend to entertain her at times with tales from his adventurous life, or amuse her by exhibiting the contents of his wonderful leather pouch, showing the phosphorus paste that had stood them in such good stead during their Huron captivity, the sleeping powder whose power the innkeeper at Ecouen and the Iroquois sentinel had rested, and the yellow ointment possessed of most extraordinary healing virtues for wounds that he had employed upon her ankle. He often talked to her about Toni and found in her a willing listener to all the praises of his hero that came so readily to his lips. Thus a real amity sprang up between them, which was finally sealed into a solemn compact one day when Toni lay asleep and Pompon managed the boat. He had been dwelling upon his friend's loyalty to himself and La Salle when Renee said musingly:

"Would that I were a man that I might become a fourth comrade to you all, but I am only a woman, weak and alone. However, I can still be a friend if my friendship is worth anything to any one. Come, M. Pompon," she said, raising herself, "I have that from the other two. May I not find in you a friend and ally also?"

Pompon looked at her outstretched hand gravely for a moment. "It is not a light thing you ask. False friends are worse than open enemies. I will, however, on one condition"—here he looked her steadily in the eye while speaking—"that condition is that you be a true friend indeed to him," pointing to the slumbering Toni, "for your faithfulness means all in all to him."

Weak Stomach.

A weak stomach is most frequently caused by the overworked and exhausted nervous system.

The power that runs the stomach is the nerve force sent to it from the brain through the nerves. When the nerves are weak or exhausted the supply of energy is insufficient and the action of the stomach is impaired, and results in imperfect digestion—dyspepsia.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve increases nerve force. It strengthens and builds up nerve tissue, gives vigor to the nerves and muscles of the stomach; this produces a healthy activity. Nerve affays the inflammation, heals the membranes, and makes the stomach strong and healthy. There is nothing that so quickly gives energy to the whole system as Restorative Nerve.

"I can't say enough for Dr. Miles' Nerve. I don't know what it will do for others, but it certainly cured me of stomach trouble, and now I am as well as I ever was. Two physicians failed to relieve me, but in three or four days after taking Dr. Miles' Nerve I was much relieved. Four bottles made me a sound man, at the cost of $4.00."

JAMES E. HART, Detroit, Mich.

Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

"Agreed with all my heart," replied Renee, flushing lightly as she clasped his hand. Pompon saw her look, and a gleam of satisfaction shot across his face as he heard her say earnestly, "And you will promise me in turn to be ever faithful to him; watch over and protect him; guard his life as your very own or mine. Be his eye to recognize danger and his right arm and shield to ward it off. Then shall you win and receive my best esteem and regard."

As for Toni, his manner betrayed no thought of love or any deeper attachment than that of friend and protector. It was as though it had been given him to bask in the clear fresh light of day for a period before his banishment into eternal night. He loved to hear the music of her voice and the ringing sweetness of her laugh, and sometimes when at the helm and she came and sat down beside him, silently drinking in the invigorating air, it seemed to him as though they were voyaging in some other world, a world of light and sunshine, an existence whose peace and contentment surpassed that of human dreams. Forgotten was the past of toil and disorder, while the kingdoms of the earth had vanished with their sound of war and conflict. He put from his mind all thought of the future, of the inevitable separation brought nearer by the passing of every league of their watery course. Content he was to live in the golden present and enjoy each transient moment.

The past two years had worked a great change in Toni. He was no longer the gay soldier of fortune, seeking in the battlefield the means of livelihood and material advancement, unscrupled in purpose, selling the service of his sword for a sum of gold and a promotion, realizing that his life was probably a short, and hence preferably, a merry one. The harsh struggle with the rugged forces of nature, the primeval freshness of a new country, the close companionship through many dangers with a soul such as La Salle's, untarnished with the common littleness of the mankind he had hitherto known, and vibrating with the devotion of a noble life to a high purpose, the association day by day with Renee, whose being unconsciously revealed its manifold complexity and beauty to his wondering eyes—all had served to bring about an inner metamorphosis that he knew not of, one that if he had studied himself carefully he would not have been able to analyze. Its only revelation was in the change of thought and purpose of which he was dimly conscious. The coarse and gross qualities of the camp, the blighting contaminations of the court, all that tended to the rearing of standards unworthy of the best in man (that tiny kernel of the divine implanted first within their hearts, the stifling or cherishing of which constitutes the sum of human responsibility) had slipped from him as an old garment. New yearnings, new ends, new ideals, had arisen to take the place of the old. He realized that a flood of glorious opportunity was his; that his would be the task of winning a new land, fairer, richer than the old; a task whose far-reaching consequences for good or ill were immeasurable. On the proper, loyal, high-minded achievement of his labor might depend the future greatness of a nation. The exalted passion felt for Renee that, unknown to him, had been the main source of the great changes wrought within, hopeless as it was as to its desired procurement, did not harden him with despair. It rather spurred him on in the invincible resolve to live his life, whatever it might be, so that he might remain worthy of her esteem. This it was that helped him to resist the temptation to be disloyal; to thrust from his thirsty lips the draught he could not taste without dishonor.

At length the propitious winds that carried them along so peacefully brought their little craft within sight of the distant promontory of St. Ignace of Michilimackinac. Here they disembarked and found a hearty welcome. The smallpox epidemic had subsided, but there were numerous sick and wretched ones among the Indians for Renee and her companion to assist in tending.

The day after their arrival Toni busied himself in making certain arrangements for the storing and forwarding of any furs that might be sent by him or La Salle from the country of the Huron.

begging that he follow him to the hut of an aged dying Ottawa. Toni soon entered the squalid lodge and found there a priest, Renee, and one of the nuns.

"I have sent for you," whispered Renee, "because the sick man has called incessantly, ever since he was told of your arrival, for the French captain, saying that he had a message for you."

Toni approached the heap of skins that served for the sufferer's bed. He lay in a stupor, occasionally arousing himself so far as to utter a moan or mutter a few inarticulate words. The sound of Toni's voice seemed to recall him to consciousness, for he grasped his hand and spoke in a weak yet clear tone.

"The French brother and the Black Gowns have been my friends. I will tell the French captain what I see." Then closing his eyes, he was silent a moment before continuing, "I see the broad fields of the Illinois. I hear the sound of the braves returning from the hunt, the shouts of the camp and the feast. I look to the rising sun and see a cloud. It grows nearer and larger. It takes the form of a bear, a heaver and a hawk. It passes over the earth and there is nothing left. The maize stalks are torn and withered. The lodges are burned; a thousand scalps are drying in the air. The village is no more. I see four Frenchmen. One is the friend of the great Ontario. Another is a Black Gown. They flee before the cloud. They wander alone; they are in need of food. They cry for help, but there is none, and the cloud has swept all away. I see—I see—" but the hand relaxed its grasp, the voice sank low and ceased, a convulsive catching of the breath, and the message was delivered; the messenger had gone.

Renee quickly followed Toni to the outer air. "What can this mean?" she asked anxiously, as she saw a look of perplexity and disquietude upon his face.

"I know not, but I fear much," was the reply. "The bear, the badger, and the hawk are three of the most powerful clans of the Iroquois. It may be that they are invading the Illinois or have already done so. In either case I must hasten on my way. Perhaps my arrival may save some impending disaster to La Salle. But after all, it may be nothing but the dying delirium of an ignorant savage. Come, mademoiselle, do not be alarmed. I shall reach there in time, never fear," and he looked reassuringly into Renee's troubled face.

She was strangely agitated. "Ah, mon ami," she cried, "do not go until you learn some news of what has happened. La Salle may be dead and you will but arrive to find a victim too. Send out your scouts that they may report to you what they learn. They can bear succor if such is needed as well as you. Or if you will go," she continued pleadingly, "take me also. Let us all go together. Is it not my duty to be where there may be wounds to heal and sickness to relieve? What would become of me were the Sieur de La Salle to be lost and you meet your death in a vain task of rescuing him?"

A great wave of feeling passed over Toni. He struggled hard to retain his footing. Why should he not tell her now how much it meant to him that she should not expose herself to further danger, but wait for his return? Tell her all the full story of his love, promising that if he found La Salle to be lost he would quickly return and claim her for his own? If the lower country were all ablaze with savage warfare he could hardly hope with his small band to avail against defense or rescue; annihilation for them all would be certain. Why could he not snatch a few moments of joy before plunging into the whirlpool of danger and woe before him? But as he strove against himself the words of the dying Indian rang clear upon his ear again. "They cry for help, but there is none." His comrade, still confiding in his faithfulness, turned to him with a cry; even in his last extremity, not knowing where his lieutenant might be, he sought his aid. Should he fail him now?

Renee watched the struggle through tear-dimmed eyes and saw the victory won. Seizing her hand, he said hurriedly:

BELL EVENS UP WITH GENERAL

Commission is Wreathed From Officer Under Peabody's Last Regime.
Denver, Col., April 6.—Burkeley Wells, the now adjutant general of Colorado, has admitted that during the one day Peabody was governor, Sherman Bell, then adjutant general, secretly issued an order removing Gen. Chase and appointing Colonel Edward Vordecberg brigadier general of Colorado militia. General Chase clashed with Bell during the Cripple Creek trouble, was court-martialed and retired. Governor Adams reinstated him, but Bell took advantage of Peabody's one-day term to remove him.

Madison Journal: With the tobacco trust whispering that it gave $12,000 to the campaign fund, and alleged leaders of the German-Americans prating about "the right to enjoy a glass of beer," Governor La Follette has troubles of his own these days, even with a six-year's tenure in the United States senate for the turning over of his hand. His support is largely the simple, honest folk on the farm, and it is unlikely that he will betray them. Their faith has already been taxed at times.

GREW MISS LEWIS' HAIR

AND WE CAN

PROVE IT

The Great Danderine Never Fails to Produce the Desired Results

MISS Lewis' hair was very thin and it was less than two feet in length when she began using Danderine. She says her hair and scalp are now fairly teeming with new life and vigor.

That's the main secret of this great remedy's success as a hair grower. It enlivens, invigorates and fairly electrifies the hair glands and tissues of the scalp, causing unusual and unheard-of activity on the part of these two most important organs, resulting in a stressuous and continuous growth of the hair.

The following is a reproduction of Miss Lewis' last letter:

January 3, 1905.

Dear Doctor Knowlton:

You know I told you in my first letter that my hair would not reach much below my shoulders, and that all of it together only made one tiny braid.

I am sending you my photograph, which I had taken at Stevens

Brass. It tells the whole story better than I can tell it.

Everybody I know is using Danderine, so you see I am doing something to show my appreciation.

Sincerely yours, (Miss) EVA LEWIS.

Danderine makes the scalp healthy and fertile and keeps it so. It is the greatest scalp fertilizer and therefore the greatest hair-producing remedy the world has ever known. It is a natural food and a wholesome medicine for both the hair and scalp. Even a 25-cent bottle of it will put more genuine life in your hair than a gallon of any other hair tonic ever made. It shows results from the very start.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes,
25 cents, 50 cents and $1. per bottle

FREE. To show how quickly Danderine acts we will send a large sample bottle by return mail to any one who sends this advertisement to the Knowlton Danderine Co., Chicago, with their name and address and 10 cents in silver or stamps to pay postage.

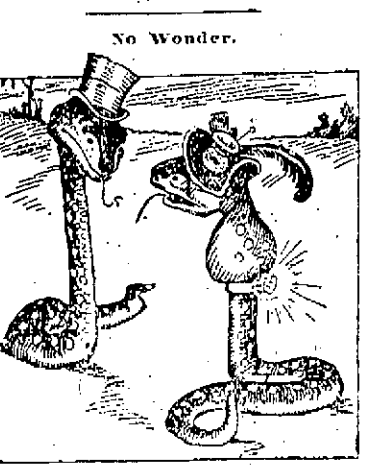

For Sale and guaranteed by People's Drug Store and King's Pharmacy.

Any itchininess of the skin is annoying. Little danger in itching skin diseases. But they make you miserable. Doan's Liniment is a never-failing cure. For Piles, Eczema, all itching troubles.

Janesville citizens endorse it. L. Lawrence of 408 S. Franklin St., engineer at the Janesville Electric Light Co., says: "I tried about everything recommended for itchininess of the skin, but found nothing to give me relief until I struck Doan's Ointment at the People's drug store. I had an affection of the skin on my face, caused from the burning oil about the engine and dynamo. My face itched and annoyed me, and rubbing it only made it worse and made it sore. I could hardly stand shaving for the skin broke and bled. A few applications of Doan's Ointment removed the itchininess and healed up my face in a few days. I would not be without this remedy in my house and I certainly recommend it to others in need of such a preparation."

EXPLAIN MEMORIAL FUND USE

Daughters of the American Revolution Correct a Misunderstanding.

Washington, April 6.—A statement has been issued by order of the board of management of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. "So much publicity has been given to the fact that the board of management has appropriated $5,000 for putting Memorial Continental hall into condition for the fourteenth continental congress and such a general misunderstanding seems to exist that the board of management has reluctantly felt obliged to issue a public statement," says the report. It explains that the money is to be used to place the hall in a proper condition, to complete many other permanent features not included in the $95,000 contract, which nearly exhausted the fund at the disposal of the building committee.

FAMOUS CHICKEN SUIT APPEAL

Litigation in Ohio County Goes to State Supreme Court.

Columbus, O., April 6.—The famous chicken suit from Seneca county has been appealed to the supreme court. W. G. Burger, a farmer, got a verdict of $500 damages from D. J. Swadner in the circuit court of Seneca county for false imprisonment for twelve hours, Burger having been charged with stealing a load of hay, twenty-four chickens and a box of chop feed.

Blown From Sleep to Death.

Tucson, Ariz., April 6.—T. O. Lamb, superintendent of the Tres Amigos mine, was blown to pieces by an infernal machine while asleep in his house at the edge of the town. Several sticks of dynamite were placed under the corner of the house and a five-foot fuse attached.

Thunder Clap Causes Death.

Decatur, Ill., April 6.—While standing in the doorway of her father's country home in Limestone county, Miss Grace Vancey fell dead during a slight thunderstorm. Death was superinduced by the noise of a sharp clap of thunder.

Fatal Automobile Accident.

Monte Carlo, April 6.—Frank Stevens, one of two Americans injured in an automobile accident near here, is dead. Stevens' companion, Louis Hay, who was hurt at the same time, is making progress toward recovery.

Home Trouble Causes Suicide.

Dixon, Ill., April 6.—Henry Reinhart, a wealthy resident and well-known business man, blew out his brains because of domestic troubles.

Cary is School Superintendent.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 6.—While the election returns are far from being complete, estimates give Charles P. Cary, candidate for state superintendent of schools, 30,000 majority over Albert Salisbury.

Fine Schoolhouse Is Burned.

Mishawaka, Ind., April 6.—The big Bingham schoolhouse which had just been completed here at a cost of $30,000 was set on fire by some unknown person. It is a total loss.

Racine Law Folio: It is an injustice to say Gov. La Follette is defeated by the legislature through ample discussion and getting together enacts a law, though it may not be just what he marked out. If it is done there will be a rate law and that is what he has been advocating.

FIRST-AID POLICEMEN.

City Guardians of Birmingham, England, Furnish Medical Aid to the Injured.

According to a report made to the state department by Consul Halstead at Birmingham, England, the residents of that city have the comfort of knowing that ere long every policeman there will be capable of rendering efficient first aid in time of need. That efficient is the result of a thorough system of instruction in first aid to the injured. During the past two years 550 policemen of various grades have been awarded certificates for efficiency in that respect, and it is reported that out of a total strength of 860, 818 policemen have passed the first-aid classes. Since 1902 first aid has been given in over 2,000 cases by policemen who were thus enabled to save lives that otherwise might have been sacrificed for lack of immediate attention.

"It is no small advantage that in a populous center, where accidents, unfortunately, are of daily occurrence," says Consul Halstead, "there should be close upon a thousand stalwart and energetic men to whom a request for medical assistance may be confidently made. The police of Birmingham have already earned and received the thanks of the community for their exertions in various departments of social and philanthropic work, especially in connection with the association for the clothing of destitute children, and the new departure which the 'watch committee' has wisely inaugurated cannot but enhance the esteem in which they are publicly held. The police association for the clothing of destitute children serves efficiently not only for the purpose which its title indicates, but has the very important effect of establishing a good understanding between the police and the very poor of a great city, who are thus taught that the police can really be their best friends; besides, it must counteract in the police themselves the hardening tendency of their work."

DEVELOPS EDIBLE CACTUS.

Formerly Useless Plant Cultivated Up to Food Form by Scientific Work.

There are millions of acres of arid land upon the globe, much of it, even with the most persistent irrigation, yielding but scantily, and enormous reaches of it devoid of all growth but the cactus, a foe to man and beast; but Mr. Burbank realized that he would reclaim it, not by irrigation, though welcoming its aid, but by means of the desert itself—the desert and its cactus, its heat and its sun. So for a period of over ten years, writes William S. Harwood, in "A Wonder-Worker of Science" in Century, he has worked with the utmost persistence and skill, until at last he has developed a cactus plant which will convert the desert into a garden. He has made the cactus thornless, taking from its leaves the hard, woody substance, the spines, so dangerous to animal life. More than this, he has made it adaptable to any climate. It will thrive on the hot desert, but it will grow with marvelous fecundity when irrigated or when planted in a richer soil. But this is not all the marvel. He has bred this dreaded scourge of the desert, this pariah among plants, until it has become the producer of a delightful, nutritious food for man and beast—until, in his estimate, considering the unused areas of the world where it will thrive, it will afford food for twice the people now upon the earth.

Self-reliance.

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance; that imitation is suicide; that he must take himself for better, for worse as his portion; that though the wide universe is full of good, no kernel of nourishing corn can come to him but through his toil bestowed on that plot of ground which is given to him to till.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

To Keep Weight Down.

If you wish to keep your weight down, don't drink water at meals. Take tea and coffee. Rise early, walk at least five miles every day, and don't take a nap after exercising. Sleep eight hours only, and on a moderately hard bed. Shun fresh or hot bread. Flee from potatoes, peas, macaroni, olive oil, cream, alcoholic drinks, sweets and pastry.

COLUMBUS ARRIVED MUCH TOO QUICKLY

Different Kind of Growth Might Have Resulted if Navigator Had Only Waited, Says Professor.

Chicago, April 6.—"One of the greatest misfortunes to America," said Prof. J. Paul Goode of the University of Chicago, to the junior college students in division meeting, "is that Columbus' discovery was made too soon. It would have been immeasurably better for the western hemisphere if it had not been heard of for a hundred years after 1492."

A century later, the professor explained, Europe was advanced further than in the days of the Genoese navigator. In 1600 it would have been in better condition to take upon itself the settlement and development of a new continent. There might have been a different kind of growth, which would have been better than that which finally resulted.

The professor refrained from going in more detail into what might have been. He asserted he had no personal quarrel with Columbus because of the latter's achievements. The sailor's intentions were good, according to the professor, and he should not be held accountable for the harm he unwittingly did. It was a mistake, but his object was worthy. "Columbus was a great admiral," concluded Prof. Goode. "He did what others had failed to do, and he doubtless deserves his monument."

PAUL JONES' BONES IN SCOTTISH SOIL

Editor of Pioneer Press Claims to Have Information of Whereabouts of Naval Hero's Remains.

St. Paul, April 6.—Joseph A. Wheelock, editor of the Pioneer Press, has discovered where the bones of John Paul Jones repose. In a dispatch from Redlands, Cal., Mr. Wheelock says the grave of the former famous sea fighter is not in Paris, as believed by Ambassador Porter, but in his birth place, Dumfries, Scotland. A Mrs. Preston, who is a native of Dumfries, asserts that Jones' mother caused the remains to be transported from Paris and buried in the Dumfries cemetery.

The grudge his countrymen bore him on account of his exploits in the capture and destruction of British ships is expressed in the stone over his grave, which, Mrs. Preston says, bears the inscription: "John Paul Jones, the Black Pirate."

Louis May, a lad of 16 years, lost his right arm in the machinery at the Britton Cooperage company's works at Green Bay on Tuesday.

PRESS COMMENT.

Rockford Register-Gazette: Beloit college wants a million dollars from Andrew Carnegie. Little Beloit never was shy on nerve.

Des Moines Register-Leader: All is said to be quiet in Hayti. Half of the revolutionary party has its old job of hack driving and the other half is enjoying a week's vacation.

Menominee Herald-Leader: After all is said the new council is not nine democratic and five republican, but fourteen Menominee. That's the winning battle cry.

La Crosse Chronicle: The reason some men won't wear a watch with an evening dress is because they seldom have them both out at the same time.

McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS

The Greatest Snap that has ever been offered to women is the McCall Magazine, a whole year, for only 15c. All that is necessary is to buy a pattern at the same time one subscribes for the magazine, or pay for the pattern and select it any time. People who reside in Janesville, when subscribing, get a ticket, and present the ticket about the 6th of each month at the office, and get the magazine. It is sent by mail, to out of town residents, at the same price. The May number is very attractive, devotes over thirty pages to illustrating and explaining the latest patterns, besides containing many pages devoted to live subjects particularly interesting to women. The Next Time you buy a pattern subscribe for the magazine, as it is the nearest to getting something good for nothing as anything we know of. You'll thank us for making it possible through a special arrangement we have with the McCall Co.

The Bazar Dress-maker, containing over 600 patterns, can be had each month for only 10c a copy. It should be in every home where the McCall patterns are used. The Fashion Sheets—Out of town people desiring the Fashion Sheet mailed to them FREE the first of each month, simply have to drop us a postal or hand in their name at the office.

Subscribe for the McCall Magazine. 15c for a whole year.

"MONEYBAK" BLACK SILKS.

The Longer a Piece of Silk Wears the Less it Costs.

If you once buy "Moneybak" black Silk and want silk again in ten years you will come to this store. Are you looking for an investment in connection with an expenditure? We think it is found in "Moneybak" black Silk.

Is it not worth something to buy a black silk having such merit as "Moneybak" undoubtedly possesses and be assured of having satisfactory results from time or money spent in making it up?

Is it not worth something to feel that your new black silk will not soon look old and rusty, crack the first time it is worn, split at the seams and cut out at the hem in a short time?

WE enjoy an enormous sale of these patterns;— something astonishing the way they sell. Pattern users have found them out. They are easy to understand and the styles up-to-the-minute. They are so good that the makers of patterns that sold for high prices have had to "come off from their high perch"—reduce their prices. It is simply a case of trying the McCall patterns. Once tried, always used. Hundreds of Janesville women swear by them.
